

Magical Relationships Mini-Workshop

If we want to understand relationships, then we have to understand why people want to relate in the first place and what they want, is the deeper question.

This is a workshop about building, healing and creating great relationships.

Explore our Magical Solutions for Relationships for Bosses, Employees, Lovers, Mothers, Neighbors, Relatives, and most importantly...ourselves.

People don't do anything without a good reason, especially something as difficult as establishing and maintaining a good relationship with someone else. Change the way we think, and we change our perceptions, change these, and we change ourselves, change ourselves and we change the way other relate to us.

So, what kind of reason could people have that is compelling enough for them to undertake something as difficult as relating to another human being?

Many people today are reading, writing, teaching and complaining about relationships. And in spite of that, too many relationships don't seem to get any better. In my counseling work I get a lot of comments like the following from clients: "My relationship just isn't working!" "My partner doesn't want to discuss our relationship..." "I've tried everything I could to make this relationship work...". These examples could go on and on, because the problem is obvious. Or is it?

The Spiritual Mastery of Relationships! 1 day Intensive Seminar

Waves exist because of a relationship between movement and stillness, and everything exists in a multitude of relationships with other things. Not all relationships are healthy, however, in terms of being beneficial to whomever or whatever is related. This is especially true of human relationships, the subject of this particular seminar. Considering all the differences between men and woman, between men and men, between woman and woman, between cultures and environments and everything else, it is a mystery and a wonder that anyone ever gets along with anyone else.
